

It's our class photo day.

Every year, in the last week of the summer term, we have our photo taken. The last week of term is in July, so the weather is always fine. We all dress in our best clothes and we are usually on our best behaviour, although sometimes one or two students act up and do silly things! I never do! I am always good.

We stand in rows and this means that the tall students stand at the back and the small students stand at the front. There are twenty one students in our class, but not all are present today.

Our teacher stands at the side of the class or sometimes, she has a chair and sits down.

A photographer from town comes to the school to take the photo. We usually have the same photographer. His name is Mr Jackson. Mr Jackson lines us all up and gets us into our correct place. Then, he says 'Smile!'

We always have fun on 'School Photo Day'.
